This is the first course in a yearlong cycle of instruction introducing you to the fundamentals of effective legal research, writing, and citation. In this course, you will learn and practice the basic skills necessary to succeed in the practice of law, whatever your chosen field. In the spring semester, in Legal Writing II, you will build on these basic skills to develop more sophisticated researching, writing, and citation practices. The premise of both courses is that research, writing, and citation weave together like a triple helix, each informing the other in the process called legal writing. We therefore teach the topics of research, writing, and citation as three aspects of the same process: your work product in both courses requires that you practice researching, writing, and citation skills.

We use a spiraling method of instruction in these courses: We first introduce core concepts such as hierarchies of authority, precedent, and stare decisis, as well as effective legal research and writing processes. Then, throughout the two semesters, we circle back to these concepts with increasingly complex analytical assignments. This semester, we focus on “objective” writing: The essential skill of predicting the likely outcome of a legal dispute based on an accurate and unbiased analysis of binding precedent applied to your client’s facts. In Legal Writing II, we turn to the art of advocacy. You will draft persuasive arguments using the same skills you develop in this course, but in a writing style designed to persuade a court to rule in your client’s favor.

This course is divided into four Units. In Unit 1, we introduce you to the structure of – and relationship between – American legal systems and legal research systems. Understanding the hierarchies of authorities and the appropriate use of primary authority – and how to access that authority – is an essential predicate to effective legal analysis, so we begin there. Unit 2 focuses on how to construct a legal argument using the CREAC organizational structure (Conclusion/Rule/Rule Explanation/Analysis/Conclusion) and researching a project from start to finish. We also introduce the key principles of writing in plain language in Unit 2. Unit 3 synthesizes the lessons of the semester with a final writing project using the Office Memorandum format. The first three Units all include instruction and practice in proper legal citation format. The course concludes in Unit 4 with an oral skills exercise, in which you present your legal analysis and advice to a supervising attorney.

Learning Outcomes:

By the end of this course, you will be able to:

1. Describe the structure, components, and functions of legal systems in the United States.
2. Describe the relative weight of different types of primary and secondary authority.
3. Demonstrate efficient, thorough, and deliberate research processes for primary and secondary authority in federal and tribal jurisdictions.
4. Identify sources of authority relevant to a complex fact pattern, including constitutional provisions, statutes, regulations, and rules of common law.
5. Identify material facts within a complex fact pattern when given a legal issue.
6. Demonstrate rule-based reasoning skills to analyze the potential outcomes of a legal dispute.
7. Demonstrate analogical reasoning skills to analyze the potential outcomes of a legal dispute.
8. Apply statutes, cases, regulations, and other forms of primary authority to analyze the potential outcomes of a legal dispute.
9. Identify and dismiss counter-arguments.
10. Practice using key principles of plain language to express your analysis clearly and concisely.
11. Practice proper Bluebook citation format with constitutions, statutes, cases, and regulations.
12. Practice oral presentation skills.

Required Texts:

1. Christine Coughlin, et al., A Lawyer Writes: A Practical Guide to Legal Analysis (3d ed. 2018).
2. Richard C. Wydick & Amy Sloan, Plain English for Lawyers (6th ed. 2019).
3. Harvard Law Review et al., The Bluebook: A Uniform System of Citation (21st ed. 2020).

Honor Code:

The Vermont Law and Graduate School Honor Code governs your work and conduct in this course. Whenever you use the words or ideas of another writer, you must acknowledge the original source. Cite the original source even when you are paraphrasing the language of a judicial opinion or another person's ideas. The assignments you submit must be your own work product. You may not give an outline or a draft of an assignment to anyone else for their review and comment, including other students, friends, partners, etc.

The Writing Specialist:

Vermont Law and Graduate School's Writing Specialist, Professor Meg York, is available to help you with the mechanics of your writing, including grammar, punctuation, sentence structure, paragraph structure, and organization. You can meet with Professor York, but only after you submit a draft for my review. You can contact Professor York at WritingSpecialist@vermntlaw.edu for an appointment.
