

Ingrid Seggerman

Ingrid Seggerman is the Senior Director of Federal Affairs for the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ASPCA), where she works on Capitol Hill and with federal agencies to encourage improved enforcement of federal laws protecting animals.

Prior to joining the ASPCA, Ingrid advocated for federal legislation to protect wildlife at Defenders of Wildlife. Before that, she held the Bob Barker animal litigation fellowship with the Humane Society of the United States.

Ingrid received her JD from Georgetown University Law Center in 2013. She currently serves as adjunct faculty at the George Washington University Law School, where she co-teaches an animal law seminar. She lives in Washington, DC with her husband Jeremy and their two rescue dogs.
