

Conservation Easements and the IRS:

What Does “In Perpetuity” Mean?

Monday, November 17

3:30 p.m.

Chase Community Center
Vermont Law School
South Royalton, Vermont

OR

Tuesday, November 18

11:00 a.m.

Capitol Plaza Hotel
Montpelier, Vermont

Karin Gross

Supervisory Attorney
IRS Office of Chief Counsel
Washington, DC

Additional remarks by:

Nancy A. McLaughlin,

Robert W. Swenson Professor of Law
University of Utah S.J. Quinney
College of Law

Janet Milne

Professor of Law and Director,
Environmental Tax Policy Institute
Vermont Law School

These sessions will be of interest to land-owners, attorneys, legislators, land trusts, conservation commissions, government agencies, planners, appraisers, faculty and students, philanthropic advisors, and people who care about conserving open space. The two sessions will be similar in content. Choose the location that is most convenient for you.

Sponsored by Vermont Law School's
Environmental Tax Policy Institute

Supported by Lintilhac Foundation

This lecture is free and open to the public.
It is worth one VBA CLE credit.

For more information, contact Janet Milne at 802-831-1266 or jmilne@vermontlaw.edu.

www.vermontlaw.edu/envirotax